

Nam Can Tho University supports free facilities and equipment for the community

Investing in facilities and modern equipment is crucial for the success of Nam Can Tho University. In order to create an engaging learning environment and foster creativity among students, the university has developed a magnificent campus with state-of-the-art facilities located in the heart of the Mekong Delta. Promoting investment in facilities and modern equipment not only creates a comprehensive learning and research environment for students, but also fosters lifelong education in society. This is achieved by serving the community and providing opportunities for agencies and units to utilize the university's facilities free of charge for organizing programs, events, and seminars.

Specifically, from 2022 to 2024, Nam Can Tho University has provided opportunities for external units to host and carry out various regional and national programs. Some notable examples include:

- On November 11, 2022, the MMMS 2022 International Conference - The Third International Conference on Material Machines and Methods for Sustainable Development - was held at Nam Can Tho University. The purpose of this conference was to examine and promote understanding of key elements related to materials, machines, and methods that contribute to sustainable development. The conference aimed to take a comprehensive approach in supporting policymakers, industries, and researchers in advancing local technology development towards sustainable development on a global scale, and to aid decision-making in adopting environmentally-friendly practices.

The event was graced by the presence of esteemed guests, including Associate Professor, Dr. Hoang Minh Son, Deputy Minister of Education and Training; People's Teacher, Professor, and Doctor of Science Banh Tien Long, Former Permanent Deputy Minister of Education and Training and President of the Vietnam Association for Science and Technology Editing; Professor, Dr. Le Anh Tuan, Chairman of the University Council at Hanoi University of Science and Technology; Professor, Dr. Kim Hyun San, President of the Asian Scientific Editorial Association; and Labor Hero, People's Teacher, and Professor, Dr. Vo Tong Xuan, Rector Emeritus of Nam Can Tho University. Along with professors, rectors, and presidents from the University Council of Vietnamese universities, representatives from businesses and nearly 400 Vietnamese and international guests attended the event in person and online from various countries including Japan, Korea, China, India, Taiwan, Belgium, Russia, and Thailand.

- Nam Can Tho University collaborated with the Can Tho City Red Cross to successfully organize the DNC Volunteer Blood Donation Festival. The event received an overwhelming response from over 600 students and lecturers, resulting in the collection of more than 300 units of blood. Blood donation is a selfless act in which individuals willingly give a portion of their own blood to help those in need. By donating blood, we ignite a spark of hope for patients who urgently require it.

It is a noble and compassionate gesture that demonstrates our love for others and our responsibility to the community. Moreover, it is a profoundly meaningful activity.
